Council's action over scrapped schools project

LUTON Borough Council is taking legal action against the Government over the scrapped schools rebuild project.

We can exclusively reveal the Town Hall lodged an application for judicial review against the Department for Education (DfE) on Friday morning.

The £300 million Building Schools for the Future (BSF) development of 11 schools in Luton was axed in July by Secretary of State Michael Gove.

Those affected by the decision included Cardinal Newman, Challney High for Boys and Denbigh High.

Some were only weeks away from seeing work started when the funding was pulled nationally.

Luton South MP Gavin Shuker said: "It's hard to say at this point how much they will get but Luton Borough Council were out of pocket by about £4-5 million. Someone has got to pick up the tab but it doesn't really build the schools."

"If the DfE can prove they went through all the processes they will be fine - if they can't they will make a settlement with Luton Borough Council."

Town Hall spokeswoman Fiona Mair said: "We can confirm that we lodged an application for Judicial Review on Friday morning at Leeds Divisional Court."

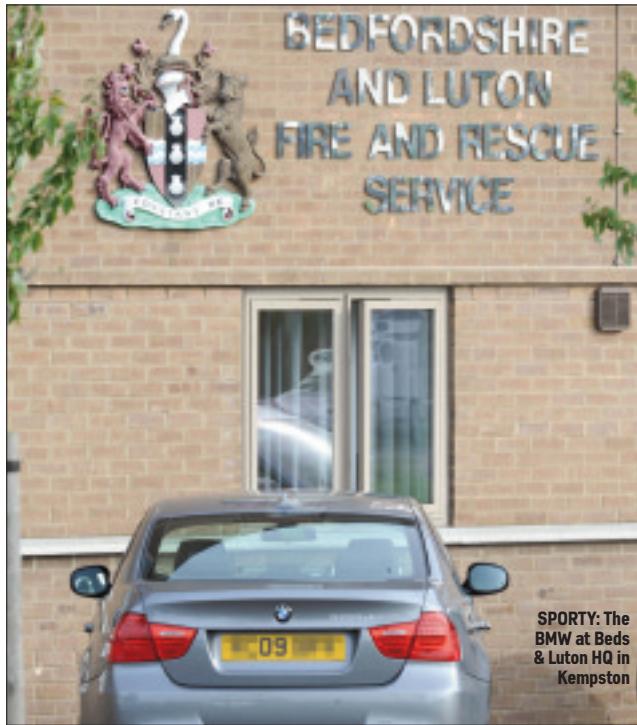

"We have no wish to engage in a legal challenge but the needs of local schools and young people must be our priority."

A DfE spokesman said: "We can confirm we have received legal proceedings in relation to the ending of the Building Schools for the Future programme."

"The Secretary of State plans to robustly defend his decision in these proceedings."

"We understand people's disappointment but the BSF programme was wasteful, needlessly bureaucratic and seriously behind schedule. It would have been inexcusable to have continued with the programme."

Brigade under fire for buying deputy's £24,000 sports car

EXCLUSIVE

BY LUI STRACCIA

lui.straccia@lutonusunday.co.uk

A NEW deputy chief fire officer, appointed this year, was the proud owner of his own sports car.

So when the fire service bought it from him for £24,000 they then gave it back for him to use as a 'company car'.

When £111,000-a-year Glen Ranger switched brigades from Warwickshire, Bedfordshire and Luton Fire & Rescue Service bought the BMW 325D Sports Auto, which he owned personally, so he could use it as an operational vehicle.

The Bedfordshire service spent £24,375 on buying his car, which was brand new in May 2009 and had previously been used for Warwickshire Fire Service under an arrangement whereby he owned the car and received an annual allowance for things such as mileage and wear and tear.

Mr Ranger joined BLFRS in June, but the purchase of his BMW only came to light this week following a Freedom of Information Act request from Bedfordshire on Sunday.

TaxPayers' Alliance spokeswoman Fiona McEvoy said: "The whole situation is a total nonsense. Taxpayers shouldn't be shelling out thousands for sports cars, particularly in the current financial climate."

"If Mr Ranger has been using his private vehicle at his own cost then he should continue to do so."

"This is a totally cavalier use of public money, and practices like this have to stop if our services are to make much-needed savings."

A Bedfordshire and Luton Fire and Rescue service spokesman said: "It was cheaper to buy Mr Ranger's personal vehicle for his use as part of Bedfordshire and Luton Fire & Rescue Service – in line with our policy on pool cars – than to buy him a brand new car on his appointment and fit it with the required blue light systems."

A spokeswoman for Warwickshire County Council said: "Glen Ranger was the Deputy Chief Fire Officer for Warwickshire County Council's Fire and Rescue Service."

"His vehicle was privately owned and he was part of the council's Essential Car User Scheme in accordance with the Travel Code of Conduct. The scheme is £1,170."

Luton's Best 2010 Awards for business-minded folk

LUTON is a town that means business.

And the Luton's Best Awards 2010 aim to recognise the individuals and organisations in the town who through their enterprise or innovation make a valuable contribution to the community - as well as the economy.

This year's awards have three categories which provide the chance for us to acknowledge these particular unsung heroes for their support and commitment.

Community Company of the Year, sponsored by Bedfordshire and Luton Chamber of Commerce, is looking for nominations of either commercial or not-for-profit organisations based in the town.

There is an award for Innovator/Innovation of the year, sponsored by Selex Galileo, which aims to recognise an individual, or organisation which has recently developed a product or service that has made a positive contribution to the town.

Individuals of any age who are working or studying in the town and have shown a commitment and involvement with the local and business community or have provided superior service will be eligible for Community Business Person of the Year, sponsored by Taylor Walton.

Nominations for all 16 categories are open until Friday, November 5.

For full details of the awards, the criteria and how to enter, visit www.luton.gov.uk/lutonsbestawards or contact Sinead McNamara on 01582 546265 or email sinead.mcnamara@luton.gov.uk

Disgraced ex-teacher had thousands of sick images

CAUGHT:
Jonathan Collings

BY JULIA SUTTON

editor@LSNmedia.co.uk

A RETIRED technology teacher who was caught with 70,000 child abuse images on his laptop has been given a community order.

Jonathan Collings, from Dunstable, who retired last year, handed his laptop in after he retired from his post thinking he had deleted its contents.

However staff at Nicholas Breakspear Catholic School, in St Albans, found the vile material while preparing the computer for use by another staff member.

A court heard Collings, 60, had formed a habit of collecting the images over ten years and was proud of his 'workmanship' of creating files of stories and thousands of pictures of child abuse.

Police officers raided his home and found a collection of more than 70,000 indecent images, St Albans Crown Court heard.

Many of the images were at Level 1, the least serious level of child abuse images, but there was a 'significant quantity' at Levels 3, 4 and 5.

At an earlier hearing he admitted three charges relating to the making of indecent images of children on printed collages.

One pictured eight children, another 11 and the third nine. In addition he pleaded guilty to making eight indecent images of children - ranging from Level 1 to Level 5.

Collings also pleaded guilty to possessing 70,336 indecent images of children - 187 were at Level 5 but the most was 61,140 at Level 1.

He pleaded guilty to another charge of possessing 837 other indecent images and to two charges of making indecent movies of children - one at Level 3 and one at Level 1.

He pleaded guilty to possessing 71 indecent movies of children - one at Level 4, four at Level 2 and 66 at Level 1.

Many of the images were at

Judge John Plumstead banned the defendant from working with children or being in the presence of a child under 16 without supervision.

He imposed a three-year community order with a requirement he take part in an internet sex offenders' programme.

He also ordered him to pay £400 costs and for the computer and hard drives to be destroyed.

He was also banned from using a computer without special police software which would alert officers if he viewed inappropriate material and banned him from using any means of covering up his internet search history.

He told Collings he had 'disgraced himself' and that it was people like him that provided a market for perverse images involving the abuse of children but made it clear that there was no evidence that the defendant had ever sexually abused a child himself.

GAV'S JOY AT RED ED'S WIN

LUTON South MP Gavin Shuker is ecstatic to have 'backed the winner' in the Labour Party's leadership contest.

Mr Shuker voted for 'Red Ed' Miliband who won the hotly contested title on Sunday after beating his older brother David to the punch.

He said: "I think what Ed will be is someone who will point to the things that are good with a degree of integrity of what we did but also what wasn't good."

STAFF TO GO AT TRAVEL FIRM

JOBS are under threat at a travel company's head office, but frontline staff will be spared the axe.

TUI Travel, which has 300 staff between its bases in Luton and Coventry, has announced a voluntary redundancy scheme.

So far it has refused to say how many posts are at risk and how many staff are employed in Luton.

GUNSHOT VICTIM WAS TARGETED

A MAN who has life-threatening injuries after being shot in the face was the victim of a 'targeted' attack, police have said.

He is said to still be in a critical condition.

Mum slams police for 'not listening' to son who later took his life

EXCLUSIVE

BY CHRISTINA JOHNSON
christina.johnson@lutononsunday.co.uk

A GRIEF-STRICKEN mother has blamed police for their handling of her son who committed suicide the day after he was arrested for harassment.

Bozena Srodecki, of Canesworde Road, Dunstable, says Peter Srodecki was left a 'broken man' after he was questioned by officers on March 19.

Mr Srodecki, 35, was released from Dunstable Police Station that day pending further inquiries, but the next day jumped in front of a train at Harpenden Railway Station.

Peter Srodecki had previously pleaded not guilty to a separate charge of assault and was due to stand trial at Luton Magistrates' Court on April 7.

His mother insists talented engineer Peter was 'innocent' but slammed officers for 'interrogating him as if he was guilty' on March 19.

She claims it was the police's treatment of him which drove him to commit suicide, as well as the way they dealt with him in connection with his assault charge.

In August, an investigation conducted by Bedfordshire Police concluded there was 'no evidence of misconduct' by officers involved.

But Mrs Srodecki is unhappy with that result and has appealed to the Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC) to review the decision.

On September 21 a coroner at an inquest into Peter Srodecki's death at Hatfield Coroners' Court recorded a verdict that he had taken his own life.

At the inquest it was revealed a note from Mr Srodecki to his family had been found in his car near Harpenden Station in which he wrote: 'I love you all. I can't take any more of not being believed.'

Firefighters rescue tarantula from blaze

A PET tarantula was rescued by firefighters after a blaze broke out in a flat on Thursday night.

The spider was discovered on the first floor after a call to the fire service at about 10pm. Firefighters were still at the scene at 7.30am the following day. A spokeswoman for the brigade said: 'We were called to a property at 10.05pm to a first floor bedroom of a two-storey house. There was heavy smoke damage to the adjoining property.'

'A tarantula was rescued from the bedroom. A fire investigation into the cause of the fire is being carried out. It (the cause of the fire) is thought to be suspicious.'

Police were also called to the scene due to the suspected nature of the fire.

Bridges demolition will speed busway progress

BY CHRISTINA JOHNSON

christina.johnson@lutononsunday.co.uk

CONSTRUCTION of Luton and Dunstable Busway will accelerate this week when another bridge is demolished.

The work on the disused railway bridge in Church Street, Dunstable, will begin at 10pm on Friday until Sunday evening with diversions in place to keep disruption to a minimum.

Alternative routes will be via Boscombe Road, Porz Avenue, Park Road North, Houghton Road and High Street North.

There are six disused bridges in total being demolished around the two towns, with one at Dunstable Road, Luton, having already been removed on September 25 (pictured).

Following the demolition in Church Street, the busway bridge works programme will then include:

- Skimpton Road bridge, Luton, from October 8 to October 10
- New Bedford Road bridge, Luton, from October 22 to October 24
- Kingsway bridge, Luton, from October 29 to October 31
- Guildford Street bridge, Luton, from November 12 to November 14

Luton Borough councillor Roy Davis said: "After 16 years of hard work in the planning stages, these bridge removals will offer the first visible sign for many members of the public that work on this superb fast-transit busway is making real progress."

Central Bedfordshire councillor Tom Nicols said: "While the process of removing these old bridges will create some short term inconvenience I am very pleased that this in itself will open up the approach into Dunstable."

Fake goods trader fined

A MARKET trader pleaded guilty to selling counterfeit goods including Superman-branded caps at his stall in Wembley.

Eric Scotland, 50, of Hampton Road, Luton, appeared at Brent Magistrates' Court on Tuesday for four offences of having in possession for distribution, counterfeit caps and socks.

The court heard that on April 25, as part of multi-agency operation, vehicles were stopped at a roadblock near the entrance of Wembley Market.

During the course of the operation, trading standards officers searched Scotland's transit van which was en route to Wembley Market and found counterfeit caps bearing famous brand names such as New Era, Gucci and Superman along with a large quantity of fake Nike socks.

In an interview in June, Scotland explained he was delivering them to the market to be sold by a friend called 'Martin'.

However, during questioning Scotland was unable to provide contact details for his friend and could not remember anything about where and from whom he had collected the goods.

The defendant's solicitor stated during the hearing that his client was remorseful for his actions and that he was unemployed since losing his job as a plasterer.

He added that Mr Scotland had become involved in the sale of counterfeit goods as he had seen it as a victimless crime.

He was given a curfew order and ordered to pay prosecution costs of £250.

Scotland will have to wear an electronic tag and stay at his home address between 7pm-7am for the next four weeks.

M1 improvement gets go-ahead

A CONGESTION-busting motorway project was finally given the green light this week.

Junctions 11 and 12 of the M1 (at Dunstable and Toddington respectively) will be upgraded to make better use of the hard shoulder running scheme on a 15-mile stretch between Junctions 10 (Luton) and 13 (Bedford).

A new signalled half-cloverleaf junction will be placed 40m to the north of the existing A5120 over-bridge at Junction 12, with new slip roads connecting that road to the motorway.

Junction 11 will be fully signalled with extra lanes on slip roads and more lanes on the A505 Dunstable Road approaches.

It is hoped the scheme will provide higher traffic flow and improved safety, with the hard shoulder being opened up as a running lane.

Confirmation of the go-ahead for the improvements came following a public inquiry in June, with construction due to begin in February 2011 and finish in 2013.

Transport minister Mike Penning said: "I am pleased to be able to give the go-ahead to these important junction improvements.

"They will help maximise the benefits of managed motorways on a nationally important route linking London and the South East with the Midlands and the North.

"As well as improving traffic flow on the motorway, slip roads and junctions, the scheme will also provide improved facilities for cyclists and pedestrians, including a combined footway and cycle-way over the A5120 at Junction 12."

The junction upgrades require land-take and are subject to full statutory procedures, including draft orders and a public inquiry.

For more information visit the Department for Transport's website at www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/roads/network/strategic/programme/decisionletters/

Funding for the scheme was approved in December 2009.

Groups take a stand against service cuts

BY CHRISTINA JOHNSON

christina.johnson@lutononsunday.co.uk

IT was a week of meetings and demonstrations as protesters showed opposition against the Government's proposed cuts.

On Wednesday, staff at Luton Tax Office, in George Street West, stood outside and warned about plans to reduce the number of days its public enquiry counter would be open.

A member of the enquiry centre team, who we agreed not to name, said: "Luton is one of the busiest in this part of the country and with the closures going on in surrounding offices I have no idea where the public will go."

That day Unison branches across Bedfordshire supported the European Trades Union Council's day of action in saying 'no' to cuts in public services.

SAYING NO: Wednesday's protest by staff at Luton Tax Office

The demonstrations followed action on Monday when more than 40 people turned up at a meeting at the Postels Club, in Cardiff Road, hosted by Luton Trades Union Council (TUC) and the Right to Work campaign to discuss what action to take after it was announced between 400 and 500 jobs could go at Luton Borough Council.

Right to Work member Steve Coghlan, who was at the meeting, said: "We met up to discuss the fact that the rich seem to be getting away with tax breaks and huge banker bonuses."

"We wanted to talk about what we can practically do in Luton."

"We decided there would be an event in Luton on October 20 for when the Government pay review is announced."

"No details are confirmed yet though."

Caroline gets pizza mark a major slice

THE USUAL PLEASE: Archie and Muj Yasin with loyal customer Caroline Dickson and her regular ham, pepperoni, mushroom and onion pizza

TWENTY-FIVE years ago an American company opened their first UK store in Luton. Today Domino's Pizza is one of the most famous brands in the country. SOPHIE SCOTT spoke to its Luton-born owners, and their longest-serving customer, about the reasons behind its stunning success.

EVERYONE knows Domino's. Their name is synonymous with takeaway pizza and it is no surprise they are the UK's number one delivery company.

But it may come as a surprise to find out they opened their very first UK store in Luton.

Back in 1985 an outlet popped up on New Bedford Road and since then it has been providing Luton residents with food for thought. Last Friday, the company celebrated its birthday at the Luton branch and gave out some special prizes.

One loyal customer was awarded free pizza for life, after it was revealed she has been ordering their ham, pepperoni, mushroom and onion pizza since it opened 25 years ago.

Caroline Dickman, of Biscot Road, Luton, said: "I was 20 when I moved to Luton and ordered my first Domino's Pizza and I have been ordering from them ever since. I am now 45.

"The pizzas are outstanding, I have tried other pizza companies over the years but none of them taste as good as my favourite Domino's pizza.

"I always order pepperoni, ham, mushrooms and onions. Sometimes, I do treat myself to a garlic bread as well. I order on a very regular basis, I wouldn't want them to forget who I am.

"The staff are like an extended family. I have got to know so many of them individually over the years. All the staff are so helpful and polite, they all know what I like to order without me having to say.

"When I call to place my order, all I have to say is, it's Caroline, and they know what I want.

"They have given me such excellent service over the years and the pizzas taste delicious.

"I first met Muj Yasin [one of the franchisees] when he delivered a pizza to me on his moped – he was 16 at the time.

"Who would have thought he would go on to actually own the store with his brother. They have achieved so much and I am proud to be their longest serving customer."

And to add to the strong company links to Luton, its current franchisees were born and bred in the town.

Brothers Archie and Muj Yasin started work in the store in its very early years and after working their way up decided to buy the store.

They have owned the outlet in New Bedford since 2002 but Archie first started as a delivery driver in 1988 and then worked his way to management.

His younger brother, Muj was employed behind the desk taking phone calls. A couple of years later he was soon out on his bike delivering round Luton before he too became management.

Muj said: "It was such a great place to work and even though there was a time when we worked elsewhere we knew we wanted to come back.

"As well as this store, we own eight others in the area. Since we took over, there has been a sales increase of 40 or 50 per cent.

"It is like a family. Everyone here works really well together and we are like a little slice of Luton.

"I think in this store the staff speak, between them, something like 11 different languages.

"How much more representative of Luton can you get than that?"

Also, during the celebration, £5,000, which had been raised in store in the past year, was handed over to the company's national charity, the Special Olympics Great Britain.

Chris Moore, chief executive of Domino's Pizza, said: "It is clear that over the years this store has provided the local community with absolutely millions of slices of our fresh, hot pizza, so it is without a doubt a big part of this town and the people here value its presence."

Luton may not be as famous for Domino's Pizza as it is for its hats or Vauxhall but it is no doubt a major part in its history.

‘Big Society’ set to pay for lessons not learned

WHAT comes around goes around. About 10 years ago, the then Bedfordshire County Council had a big idea to save money and improve services. It was called out-sourcing, which in plain English meant privatising a lot of the services. The council would become an ‘enabling’ authority but over time would do less and less of the work itself.

For all the major administrative contracts a company called Hyder Business Services, later HBS, was hired. In 2001, the council entered into a twelve-year partnership worth £267m with HBS, one of whose aims was ‘to delight customers’.

550 council employees were transferred to HBS in the original deal, making the partnership one of the county’s biggest employers.

The intention was to reduce costs, invest millions in computer systems and accommodation, provide services to the county’s 220 schools and improve customer service generally.

They ran all the admin at County Hall and much else besides. Other companies were brought in to run parts of social services, school meals, road repairs, buildings maintenance and much else. It was the future.

Soon it began to get into trouble. Private companies were not always so cost-effective as some believed, did not always have the expertise, and were not always so committed to a high-quality public service as they were to an easy buck. There was also a bit of bad feeling as most remaining council staff lived in slightly grubby offices, while HBS took over the sixth floor of County Hall and turned it into something a bit more palatial.

Instead of costs falling and standards rising, council taxpayers saw standards falling and costs rising.

A new county council leader, Madeline Russell, and a new chief executive, Andrea Hill, decided to reverse the process. The council cancelled the contract with HBS in 2005, the severance of which cost some £7 million alone, and began to bring it all back home.

Work done by other companies was also taken back into council control and, at this moment, the two new unitary authorities are in consultation with Mouchel, contracted to undertake the management, maintenance and design of all council property, to bring that back in-house.

It seems a lesson learned.

Then, the other evening, I saw a news item where Suffolk County Council had come up with a big idea to save money. It was going to out-source all its services and become an ‘enabling’ authority. Sitting behind the leader of the council as he spelt out this new vision, was their relatively new and very highly paid chief executive, Andrea Hill.

It was difficult to judge what she was thinking, as Ms Hill would always have made a good poker player. This time it is more likely to save money as instead of private companies getting the work, it is all going to be the Big Society.

For those still unsure, the Big Society is us, all of us. After we have been to work, those of us lucky enough to have a job, we will pop out and clean the schools, mow the verges, take meals round to the elderly, staff the libraries and mend the holes in the road. The unemployed will not be able to perform these tasks, as they will not be available for work if they do and therefore lose their benefit.

Dementia sufferers' home under threat

EXCLUSIVE

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@lutononsunday.co.uk

NEARLY 30 elderly dementia sufferers aged up to 95 may have to move out of their council-run care home in cost-cutting measures.

The 28 residents of The Mount, in Tennyson Road, Luton, are threatened with relocation if a recommendation to close it down is approved tomorrow.

Its 43 members of staff would face losing their jobs.

Currently nine beds are vacant at the home and the cost of a bed per week is £217 more expensive than a similar bed in an independently-run home.

It would cost at least £100,000 to bring the building up to standard and, in a year, savings of £604,000 would be made if the service was scrapped.

After a 90 day formal consultation, a further report will be written in February when a final decision on its future will be made.

In a report by Luton Borough Council, it states 'in reality The Mount is a complex, rambling building whose layout is not suited to its current role as a provider of dementia care services.'

And it also says how it is 'becoming increasingly difficult

FUTURE IN DOUBT:
The Mount

to provide the levels of dignity, including respect of cultural needs and space to provide high levels of personal care.

'Meeting the often challenging care needs of those with dementia will remain difficult within this building even if significant further investment were to be made.'

A council spokeswoman said: 'The report on The Mount will be considered by the council's executive tomorrow so it isn't really appropriate for us to comment at this stage and pre-empt any decisions.'

'If - and only if - the recommendations are approved, the council will be carrying out a 90-day formal consultation looking at the possible re-provision of care services for residents at The Mount.

'The health and well-being of the residents is, as always, our number one priority and will be the key factor in any decision that is made.'

'But no decision has been made yet and current residents, their relatives and carers, staff and the general public will all be fully involved throughout any consultation and decision making process.'

Thousands spent on interpreters

BEDFORDSHIRE Police have splashed out £357,595 hiring freelance language interpreters for foreign criminals and victims since January this year.

Between the beginning of the year and September 17, the force had a spoken translator present 1,399 times, paying them up to £66.76 per hour.

The figures were released following a request by Luton on Sunday under the Freedom of Information Act.

The figures also showed in 2009, 664 interpreters were used 1,585 times - at an overall cost of £389,987. Spoken translators were needed for 60 different languages, with the most popular being Polish.

And, since July 2009, the hired language experts have been paid £33.83 per hour between 8am and 8pm, £50.75 between 8pm and 8am and £67.66 on Sundays and Bank Holidays. For telephone interpreting, they are paid up to £16.91 for 25 minutes on a Sunday or Bank Holiday.

Sarah Wilkinson, spokeswoman for Bedfordshire Police, said: 'If statements are to be used for evidential and court purposes, they must be produced by an approved interpreter, to ensure the integrity of the evidence.'

'The cost of interpretation services is more than it was ten years ago. However, Project 2011, which is looking for increased efficiency across the whole force, is investigating if, and how, costs for interpretation services can be reduced.'

Marc's fury over locker thefts

A ONE man protest was staged outside a swimming pool after £1,400 worth of valuables were stolen from there last weekend.

Green Party candidate Marc Scheimann, pictured, took his toddler son to Dunstable Leisure Centre last Saturday but while they were swimming his locker was broken into.

The thieves also stole from seven other families, who lost £1,400 between them in mobile phones at the pool, run by Central Bedfordshire Council.

Mr Scheimann said: 'I took my two-and-a-half-year-old son swimming last Saturday and while we were there someone came in and prised eight lockers open. I think it is disgraceful that someone can just walk in and take their time going through all our lockers and clothes to find stuff to steal.'

'I had my brand new mobile phone taken, other people had iPhones, cash, cards. Everything worth taking was taken.'

'It is very concerning that this can happen and the council aren't telling people. The lockers were just popped open and he must have been in there for a while and no checks were made by staff when it was happening. I think it is very worrying that this can happen.'

A police spokeswoman said: 'The thefts happened between 12.30pm and 2pm when several lockers were forced open. We would ask anyone who witnessed anyone acting suspiciously in the locker area on Saturday to contact us on 01234 841212.'

Councillor David McVicar said: 'Prior to this incident there had only been three recorded thefts at Dunstable Leisure Centre in the last three years.'

'Following discussions with some of the victims of this particular incident the manager of Dunstable Leisure Centre is investigating the possibility of installing smaller lockers in the reception area that can be observed throughout the day.'

What's new from Labour?

SIR - So we have a so-called new generation era in the Labour Party and the electorate are expected to just sweep away and forget that 'Mr Ed' and his colleagues presided over a widening gap between the rich and poor, the pending imposition of ID cards (had they been elected) and the infringement of civil liberties that flowed from that for every citizen in this country.

A party that's no different to the Con/Dem Government as it will refuse to commit to scrapping Trident, will not progress climate change and care for the environment as they are wedded to vested interests that will ensure progress will be very slow.

Will 'Mr Ed' commit to withdrawing our troops from Afghanistan or Iraq and insist on a political dialogue instead of sitting in the House of Commons each week reading out the names of our troops who have lost their lives in a war that's both unwinnable and illegal under international law?

There is a distinct problem with occupying the centre ground, Mr Miliband.

It's a rather crowded area and is occupied by the right wing Tories and their Social Democrat friends so quite where you will lay your political hat will be very interesting indeed.

Peter Burrows
Bedfordshire Liberal Party

No thanks, Ed . . .

SIR - I will never vote for Labour again because in 13 years of power, they flooded this country with immigration, and if you dare say a word against it, you were deemed a racist. I can never forgive Labour for that.

Now Ed Miliband is the new Labour leader. His brother, David, has the mature looks of a leader. Ed looks more like a Blue Peter presenter.

The Coalition Government keeps going on about getting people off benefits and back to work.

So where are all those jobs? I say there are no jobs. They don't exist.

Sometimes I think that politicians just like the sound of their own voices.

John Tucker
Bracklesham Gardens, Luton

Climate change clarified

SIR - Gosh, didn't Cllr Garrett's poke at Luton Borough Council's 'Climate Change Team' rattle some cages?

It touched many different nerves from 'better ways to spend/save money' to that old chestnut – climate change.

Tragically it is clear that some people are still confusing climate change with man-made climate change. They are not the same thing.

The first is real and is probably entirely beyond our control whereas the second is little more than a suspicion whose only significant 'scientific' support comes from a group calling themselves 'climatologists' (I believe they are a branch of alchemists who first appeared around the same time as the expression 'global warming').

I had hoped that even the most hermit-like of our population

Unacceptable cuts in costs

SIR - As a local resident, I am writing to tell you about local funding cuts to services for disabled children and their families in this area.

I am a supporter of the Every Disabled Child Matters campaign, which has recently published a report 'Close to Crisis: Frontline service cuts for disabled children', highlighting concerns of parents and professionals over service closures for disabled children.

I would like you to look into why there are no free college places for disabled people who get Incapacity Benefit instead of Income Support.

This is ridiculous as many young people (my daughter included) who have learning difficulties receive Incapacity Benefit and not Income Support – if you receive Income Support you are entitled to a free place in college.

I am certain this has been done to cut costs.

I am also hearing that most of the teams my daughter and I work with have all been told that their jobs are at risk in the cuts our council is having to make.

How on earth are parent/carers supposed to get the help and support we need if these services are reduced or cut completely?

It's already difficult enough to make sure my daughter isn't sat at home all day doing nothing.

If you would like any more information about 'Close to Crisis' please contact info@edcm.org.uk

Mrs Andy Assan
Lansdowne Road, Luton

would have noticed that the 'man-made' myth has been well and truly dropped by everyone from Barack Obama downwards.

The Kyoto Protocol expires in 2012 and the Copenhagen talks collapsed in failure so there is now no realistic chance of anything to follow.

The whole thing was a massive conspiracy between 'climatologists' – who saw a chance for recognition, large financial organisations with an eye to making a fast buck by operating the carbon credits system – and politicians who, very laudably, wanted to wean us off fossil fuels, most of which are controlled by non-democratic and very unstable states.

To the 'hermits' out there, the US has thrown out its climate bill, and of the 48 Republican contenders for the Senate next month not one is a 'believer'.

Closer to home, the Royal Society put out a statement this year: 'Any public perception that the science is somehow fully settled is wholly incorrect'.

By all means let's do everything sensible to reduce our reliance on fossil fuels, but not at any cost.

Electricity produced from wind or solar power costs around four times as much as coal, gas or nuclear and they still need conventional power stations to back them up.

And if you really want to feel good about our efforts on the carbon front, the British Government claims to have reduced CO₂ emissions by 19 per cent since 1990 – but if you include aviation and other 'excluded sources' they've actually increased by 29 per cent.

So who's kidding whom?

Ron Turvey
Stammore Crescent, Luton

Humans not to blame

SIR - It was Hitler's propaganda minister, Joseph Goebbels, who said that 'if you tell a lie big enough and keep repeating it, people will eventually come to believe it'. This fundamental truth is the basic principle behind every major scam, from the Common Market – which its originators secretly intended as the foundation for the present supra-national government of Europe – to the great climate change debate.

Every pronouncement has been compounded by lies and deceptions – lies to and by our elected ministers, and by every organ of our national life, from the civil service to the BBC.

As with all the most effective lies, those on climate change have been skilfully mixed with observable truths.

Thus the melting of some, but not all, glaciers and sea ice is widely publicised.

The terrible scale of the floods in Pakistan, and the seemingly unprecedented heatwave in Russia, are also ready ammunition for the warmists. What they never mention is the fact that our present climate has been warming ever since the last Ice Age when glaciers were commonplace in Britain.

The fact that it is a natural process over which we have, at best, a microscopic influence is conveniently ignored.

Recent measurements have now revealed a shift in the 'jet stream' of air that flows around the northern hemisphere.

This shift has apparently been sufficient to move both the monsoon and the heat farther northward. What has caused it is so far unexplained, but I somehow doubt that it is due to human activities on earth.

A great many people, in Europe and elsewhere, are making billions of pounds out of the EU and the various (costly) things we are being urged to do to ward off global warming.

It's time we remembered Goebbels and his infamous propaganda dictum.

Stop whipping horses

SIR - Despite increasing public concern for the welfare of animals, one aspect of animal cruelty rarely gets exposure – the use of the whip on racehorses.

Animal Aid recently completed a survey of whip offences committed by jockeys in racing during the first six months of 2010.

Taken from the British Horseracing Authority's database, the whip rules which are meant to protect horses from abuse were contravened during this period 453 times by 243 jockeys.

The penalties imposed were not severe enough to stop 101 jockeys from re-offending, and two broke the rules nine times.

Looking deeper into the problem there has been an 83 per cent rise in offences since 2006.

Many horses were hit when they had no chance of winning.

Others were hit so hard that they were left with marks.

Shockingly, a number of horses were beaten on more than one occasion.

One elderly horse – who has never had the ability to ever win a race – was brutalised by his jockey as he plodded up to Towcester racecourse's finishing post in an exhausted state.

He was also beaten with the whip a month later at the same racecourse by a different jockey when out of contention.

Clearly current regulation does not work as a disincentive to offend. Animal Aid believes it is time to remove the whip from British racing.

Dene Stansall
Horse Racing Consultant, Animal Aid

Help combat fraud

SIR - Fraud costs the UK more than £30 billion pounds every year and at least £3.5 billion of that is lost by individuals like your readers.

All too often, people don't report this crime as they feel embarrassed about becoming a victim.

But fraud is a serious crime that can affect any one of us and this silence only helps the criminals who are often part of organised gangs.

Action Fraud is the UK's National Fraud Reporting Centre and provides a central place for victims to report fraud either online or by phone.

The service takes crime reports from victims of fraud and provides them with a crime reference number. This information is then fed to the police-run National Fraud Intelligence Bureau to gain a more complete national picture of fraud.

At Action Fraud you can also get a wide range of information about different types of fraud, from shopping and dating frauds to lottery and banking frauds, and how to protect yourself.

The best thing to remember is that if it seems too good to be true, it probably is.

Fraud can devastate lives.

We urge all your readers to take the time to make sure you are protected and come forward and speak to us if you've been a victim.

Help us fight back against the fraudsters.

Monty joins in the fight against abuse

BY LUI STRACCIA
lui.straccia@lutononsunday.co.uk

THE number of domestic violence incidents in Luton rose by more than 100 last year.

Between April 2009 and March 2010 there were 1,251 crimes and 3,868 incidents - an increase on the 1,166 and 3,744 respectively during the previous 12 months.

Luton-born cricket star Monty Panesar is tackling the problem head-on as part of this month's Domestic Abuse Awareness Month, when Luton's community safety unit, Solutions, will team up with Bedfordshire Domestic Violence Partnership.

Together they will raise funds for charities which support victims of domestic abuse, helping to increase awareness of the problem.

England spinner Monty said: "Domestic abuse has a devastating effect on individuals and families; people need to know that they do not have to deal with it on their own and there is help out there."

In England and Wales, one in four women and one in six men will experience domestic abuse at some point in their lifetime.

A Luton Borough Council spokeswoman said: "There has been a moderate rise in the domestic violence figures this year compared to last.

"However, it is important to emphasise that an increase in reported domestic violence incidents doesn't necessarily mean a rise in actual incidents and could reflect the fact that people are now more confident in coming forward to seek help and report the crime."

Central Bedfordshire Councillor David McVicar said: "We want to promote a clear and consistent message that domestic abuse is not acceptable and that perpetrators will be held to account."

To raise awareness and funds for charities supporting victims of domestic abuse there will be three events in Luton. They will take place on:

- Friday, October 15 at Melson Square, The Mall Luton - 10am-4pm
- Monday, October 25 at Luton & Dunstable Hospital Restaurant, Lewsey Road - 10am-4pm
- Thursday, October 28 at the SOS Luton Bus, in Market Hill - 10am-4pm

Cultural event to encourage historymakers of the future

BY SOPHIE SCOTT
sophie.scott@lutonsunday.co.uk

BLACK History Month will see a host of events taking place across south Bedfordshire in October.

Central Bedfordshire Council and Luton Borough Council are putting on performances, workshops and projects to help people learn about different cultures.

Businesses are setting up stalls today in St George's Square, Luton, to showcase the very best of black culture.

A British Black History exhibition dating back to the thirteenth century will also be held.

The UK Centre for Carnival Arts Revellers Steel band, Nubian Beat African drummers and other street artists will be on hand to keep everyone entertained throughout the day.

Luton Town's football stars will also be attending the event and will be encouraging young people to become history makers of the future.

Schools across Luton are taking part in a variety of cultural events including learning about traditional African music and playing instruments, sampling Afro-Caribbean meals and art and dance workshops.

A playlist of influential, traditional, ground breaking and modern black and Asian artists will be available to listen to via Central Bedfordshire Council's website.

For a full list of events visit www.centralbedfordshire.gov.uk or call Community Development Officer Annette Wilson at 0300 300 5320.

Young sparks to learn dangers of electricity

A HARD-HITTING presentation will aim to shock schoolchildren into understanding the dangers of electricity.

It is hoped workshops at Tennyson Road Primary School, in Tennyson Road, and Ferrars Junior School, in Lewsey Road, Luton, on October 13 and 14 respectively, will jolt pupils into realising how high voltage electricity can jump gaps and be conducted through anything, including fishing rods and kites, with tragic consequences.

The children will also watch a video about a young boy who is fatally injured after ignoring triangular 'Danger of Death' signs and entering a substation.

It is all part of a programme of workshops organised by EDF Energy Networks to raise awareness of the potential dangers of electricity.

More than 900 children from schools across the county are expected to attend the safety lessons this month, learning about the dangers of playing near substations and overhead power lines.

Any school or educational group wanting more information can contact EDF Energy Networks' education team on 01473 266473 or via the website www.edfenergy.com/powerup

TWO lucky girls have secured a part in a Christmas pantomime alongside Gavin and Stacey star Joanna Page.

Charlotte Cruise, 13, of Chalkdown, Luton, and Taisan Carys Patterson, six, of Dunstable, have both been given roles in Dick Whittington at Milton Keynes Theatre.

They will also perform alongside Hollywood actor Luke Perry of Beverly Hills, 90210 fame and Britain's Got Talent finalist Stavros Flatley.

The girls won the part after auditioning for Robinsons' Search for a Star at the theatre. They were taught a specially choreographed dance routine that they performed to the panel.

Kevin Wood, chief executive of First Family Entertainment and head judge, said: "We're really excited to have found these talented youngsters to take part in this year's Robinsons' Search for a Star initiative.

"The search was created to help nurture the talents and skills of children across the UK, making it a great way to encourage kids to practice, play and perform attributes at the very heart of childhood."

As well as Charlotte and Taisan, 22 other children were chosen on the day.

Dick Whittington runs from December 10 to January 16 at Milton Keynes Theatre.

Football fans put cash in the kitty for Gambia

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@lutononsunday.co.uk

NEARLY £600 was collected to help develop education in West Africa - through football.

The sum was chipped in at Luton Town's 2-0 win against Mansfield on Tuesday night to raise money for Football Gambia.

The charity hopes to improve learning and community development in the West African country through its fundraising efforts.

Ian Stapleton, 35, who has coached football in St Albans, set up the charity after a holiday to the country last March.

He said: "I have coached under-12 teams in St Albans and it was interesting to compare the two

CHARITY GOAL: Supporters and charity workers collect money for Football Gambia age groups. In Gambia, they didn't have the right tools for the job. "They had all the skills and passion and their technical ability was fantastic, so I started sending football kit over but I realised I really had to couple that with the education."

The £562.23 raised from Tuesday's match at Kenilworth Road will go towards sending kit over next year.

Mr Stapleton added: "We have got half a container to fill with kit to send over. I think it's about 20 metres of space so that is a lot.

"We need to raise about £850 for that so we have got a long way to go before we get there, but we did get a lot on Tuesday which was really good. It was an exciting night."

Health warning issued over 'cancer cure'

A WARNING has been issued about an oral health supplement which claims to cure cancer - but is actually equivalent to industrial-strength bleach.

Luton Borough Council's food safety team is urging people to take note of Food Standards Agency nationwide advice regarding Miracle Mineral Solution (MMS).

The solution is 28 per cent sodium chlorite and, when taken as directed, it could cause severe nausea, vomiting and diarrhoea, potentially leading to dehydration and reduced blood pressure.

If the solution is not diluted as instructed, it could damage the gut and red blood cells, resulting in respiratory failure.

Councillor Joan Bailey said: "If you have already bought MMS, please throw it away. If you have taken MMS and you are feeling unwell, contact your GP immediately."

MMS is available via the internet but is banned from being on sale in retail outlets.

If you are aware of anyone supplying MMS contact the council's food control team at environmentalhealth@luton.gov.uk or on 01582 546674.

Elliott NetworkAuctions

If it's CERTAINTY, CERTAINTY, CERTAINTY you're looking for, have a look at Elliott Network Auctions.

Toby Limbrick from Elliott Network Auctions is keen to point out that in these difficult economic times, their property auctions provide an opportunity for seriously motivated sellers who value the certainty of a sale.

How often do you hear, with private treaty Estate Agency sales, of buyers trying to re-negotiate at the last minute with rather irrelevant issues on Survey - such as a cracked patio slab - or on Title - "I thought it was 999 not 997 years left on the lease" - and buyers trying to re-negotiate terms. These irrelevances and the fickleness of buyers is removed by the certainty of selling by auction.

Any type of property or land can be sold by auction; from ground rents and lock-up garages to substantial family homes.

A reserve figure is agreed - this is the lowest figure that the seller will take and is a private figure between the seller and the auctioneer; it needs to be realistic and may not always be as high as private treaty sale but in return you have the huge advantage of when the auctioneer's gavel falls, it is at that point that contracts are exchanged and both the buyer and seller are committed to the sale - completion taking place normally 20 working days thereafter.

Often, if selling a house which is tenanted, High Street Estate Agents recommend that the property is vacated by the tenants, thus losing the landlord income; whereas selling by auction is a great method of selling tenanted property.

Elliott Network Auctions have two sales before the end of the year in November and December, so if you are looking to sell a property before Christmas, perhaps to avoid the worry of an empty property over the cold winter months, now is an ideal time to contact Toby Limbrick at Elliott Network Auctions on 01582 639432 www.networkauctions.co.uk

Raising a glass to the medieval Cité of France

TRAVEL

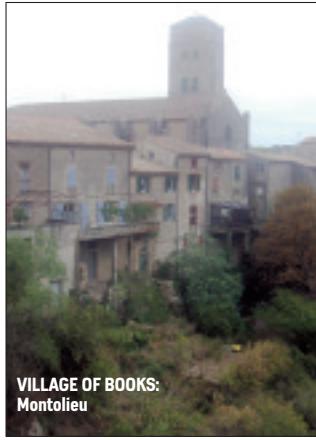

CARCASSONNE

FEW can deny the true beauty of Carcassonne.

The fortified town lies in the Languedoc-Roussillon wine region of South West France in the foothills of the Pyrenees.

As I arrived and got my first glimpse of the ancient Cité's tall ramparts, I found myself living in a medieval fairytale with the blinding sun escaping through the watchtowers' murder holes and loopholes.

Taking a stroll around the narrow, cobbled streets of the inner Cité there are plenty of souvenir shops that you come to expect from any popular tourist trap, but mixed in are plenty of small cafes and restaurants that allow you to sit back and soak in your historic surroundings.

VILLAGE OF BOOKS:
Montolieu

An audio tour of the chateaux and its ramparts is a must do as you get a real sense of what it must have been like to live and walk in medieval Carcassonne as well as experiencing fantastic views down to the lower city below.

In the heart of the historic town lies the magnificent Hôtel de la Cité my place of rest for the next couple of nights.

Over the past 100 years, the hotel has played host to a number of international stars including Winston Churchill, Grace Kelly, Johnny Depp, Jacques Chirac and the Queen Mother, and hidden deep in the hotel's 'golden book' Collette, the famous French singer/songwriter, beautifully summed up her stay by simply writing, "After so many hotels, at last my home."

The hotel's French Gardens provide breathtaking views of the Count's Castle and, in the distance, the Pyrenees and Back Mountains.

The gardens offer the perfect sanctuary from the Cité's busy streets and as you relax poolside, shaded by the silhouette of the gothic-styled St Nazaire Basilica, which can be found a stone's throw away from outside the hotel, you can look up at three of the 52 towers that guard the Cité and act as a constant reminder of the hotel's historic location.

I couldn't leave Carcassonne without sampling some of the French cuisine on offer from the hotel's famous La Barbacane restaurant which is reputed to be the best in South West France. The restaurant is the only Michelin-star restaurant in Carcassonne and its neo-gothic décor features cathedral chairs and stained-glass windows that really fit in with the feel and setting of the Cité.

As you can imagine, I couldn't wait to receive my meal and I wasn't left disappointed, the main course of guinea fowl roasted Basque-style with stuffed pequillos and stock being a personal highlight. Compliments, indeed, go to the chef.

The following morning, I headed out to Montolieu a small, attractive town known as the 'village of books' created by Welsh bookseller Richard Booth well known for his contributions to the success of Hay-on-Wye as a centre of second-hand book-selling.

The tranquil town breathes culture with just over a dozen or so bookshops and offers visitors a pleasant alternative from the medieval setting of Carcassonne.

There is plenty to see and do and in keeping with its literature heritage, the Michael Brabant Museum is a great experience.

Nestled in the centre of the town, the museum gives visitors a historical insight into the birth of writing and also has old printing presses on display for guests to marvel at.

Just down the road is the La Cooperative Centre d'Art et de Litterature which is a local art gallery that specialises in paintings, sculptures, photography and poetry, all of which is open for visitors to explore. It really is incredible to see such a peaceful, little village crammed with so much culture.

I was told before taking this trip that you can't go to the south of France without sampling some of region's finest wines.

So I headed out to Chateau St Jacques d'Albas, a local vineyard in an area described by 'master of wines' Clive Coates, as "one of the most rewarding areas in the Midi for inexpensive but interesting wines".

The vineyard is believed to have originated in or before the Roman era and bottles predominantly red wines.

After tasting the six wines that were placed before me, I came to the conclusion that my favourite was the 2004 La Chapelle Saint Jacques (pictured) a red wine perfect for serving with game or lamb with a nose of red berries and elegant vanilla. I raise my glass to you Carcassonne.

Zenden gives washed-up United a scare

MANCHESTER UNITED wasted the opportunity to close the gap on Premier League leaders Chelsea after being held to a goalless draw by Sunderland.

The match was delayed for 20 minutes because of a burst pipe in the visitors' dressing room and it appeared to affect Sir Alex Ferguson's side more.

Steed Malbranque should have put the Black Cats ahead early on from eight yards out, but failed to beat goalkeeper Edwin van der Sar.

Just before the break Bolo Zenden hit a post, but United came back stronger in the second-half and Dimitar Berbatov, coming on for Michael Owen, had a goal rightly awarded for offside.

Meanwhile, summer signing Rafael van der Vaart starred for TOTTENHAM, scoring twice as the hosts came from behind to beat ASTON VILLA 2-1.

Jon Walters' first Premier League goal lifted STOKE up to seventh after a 1-0 win over BLACKBURN.

EVERTON ended BIRMINGHAM'S record-equalling 18-match unbeaten League record at St Andrews thanks to an own goal from Roger Johnson and a Tim Cahill header.

Everton's win – their first of the season – dropped Merseyside rivals Liverpool, who play Blackpool today, into the bottom three.

Frederic Piquionne salvaged a point for WEST HAM as his 51st-minute header earned a 1-1 draw at home to FULHAM.

WIGAN beat WOLVES 2-0 after they had Karl Henry sent off in the 11th minute and BOLTON fought out a 1-1 draw with WEST BROM.

Reihana racks up 1,000 points as Saints edge it

BRUCE REIHANA contributed 17 points and passed a Premiership scoring landmark as second-placed Northampton made hard work of beating newly-promoted Exeter 27-21 at Franklin's Gardens.

The long-serving New Zealander went past the 1,000 point mark in the Aviva Premiership with his second penalty.

Saints had led 16-9 at the break thanks to Paul Duggin's try and three Reihana penalties, Gareth Steenson kicking three penalties in reply.

Two more Reihana penalties and a try from prop Soane Tonga'auhia sealed Northampton's win.

BARTON ROVERS 3

MALDON & TIPTREE 1

BARTON Rovers progressed into the next round of the FA Trophy despite going down to ten men in the second half.

Both teams started the game with good passion and enthusiasm which created some good football, but also produced a lot of yellow cards.

Bilal Hassan opened the scoring for Barton after 35 minutes when he ran on to a great throughball, and buried the ball into the back of the net.

Tom Peverall doubled the lead for the home side just before the break after he produced a screamer of an effort to give Barton a comfortable half time lead.

Both sides calmed down in the second half, but this didn't prevent Desi Djuroke from receiving his second yellow of the game, and his marching orders.

Maldon & Tiptree weren't able to capitalise on this however and certainly looked like a beaten side.

This was confirmed after Ricky Case netted with quarter of an hour to go after a great individual effort, running past the visitors defence and slotting home.

Maldon did bag a consolation goal however, the visitors netting with just five minutes to play.

MATTHEW Barnes-Homer's first half strike was enough to give Luton a narrow victory over Barrow in a game where the Bluebirds will rue their missed opportunities.

The Hatters were outplayed for the majority of the second half as Barrow searched for an equaliser after the striker's low drive in the first period had given Luton the lead against the run of play.

Town travelled to Holker Street with only two wins to show from their six away games so far this season and saw the contest against Barrow as a great opportunity to turn their fortunes on the road around, especially as the Cumbrian outfit had lost their previous three Blue Square Bet Premier matches and failed to score in their last 312 minutes of football prior to yesterday's clash.

The Hatters started the game comfortable in possession, playing the ball on the ground and passing round the pitch with relative ease.

In contrast, Barrow were keen to move the ball forward as quickly as possible in an attempt to catch Luton on the counter attack, but the defensive pairing of Zdenek Kroca and George Pilkinson proved too

UP AND RUNNING: Joe Lynch scoring Luton's first try

Weston caps off victory for Luton in a late rally to down Kenilworth

NATIONAL MIDLANDS THREE

A COMPETITIVE match finally swung in LUTON'S favour with a dominant final 20 minute spell against Kenilworth to win 24-13.

Visitors Luton led 10-9 at half time, with all of their first half points coming via Aidan Kenny penalties.

He opened the scoring on nine minutes before the visitors responded with a converted try and drop goal.

Considerable Luton forward pressure resulted in two penalties that Kenny scored on 35 and 40 minutes. A Joe Lynch try on 50 minutes gave Luton a 14-10 lead but the visitors responded with a penalty on 56 minutes to bring them within a point of the hosts at 14-13.

However Luton scored ten unanswered points in the final 20 minutes to seal the match.

They came via another Kenny penalty and a Mike Weston try which was converted.

Captain Matt Allen deserves mention as he was outstanding throughout, impressing in defence and attack.

Karl Rodell also made his mark in his debut as a second row forward.

tall and too aware for the host's tactics to threaten.

Andy Drury, back in the starting 11 after a calf strain, found himself in space early on and played through Danny Crow who coolly pulled the ball back to Claude Gnakpa on the edge of the Barrow box, but the Frenchman's effort was weak and easily saved by keeper Alan Martin.

Soon after, Drury again found himself in a good position on the edge of the box and unleashed a right-footed curling effort towards the top right corner, but Martin was well positioned to comfortably pluck the ball out of the air.

On 11 minutes, Luton made a faint-hearted penalty appeal after Paul Edwards appeared to pull down Gnakpa, but referee Tony Harrington was quick to move the game forward and waved it away.

Barrow did manage to muster a couple of efforts on goal within the opening half hour with two chances falling to Andy Cook. His first was a headed effort straight into the hands of Mark Tyler after a deep free kick, and then the forward wasted a good position by slicing his effort well wide of the Luton net.

As the half wore on, Barrow grew in confidence and brought a more controlled approach to their attacking play, with Paul Rutherford looking particularly menacing down the right-hand side.

Despite this, Luton took the lead after 37 minutes with Drury laying off the ball to Barnes-Homer who, from just outside the box, blasted a low drive past Martin and into the bottom left corner to claim his seventh goal of the season.

Barrow then came close to drawing level soon after. Rutherford whipped in a tantalising ball from the right which was met by Neil Wainwright at the back post forcing Tyler to get down quickly and turn the ball wide.

Drury could have doubled Luton's lead on the stroke of half time but a brilliant diving save by Martin kept out the winger's right-footed effort which looked destined to finish in the bottom right corner.

Barrow started the second half brightly as James Owen picked out Jason Walker in the Luton box, but the forward's curling effort was marginally wide of the upright. Soon after, Tyler had to be at his best to get down to the forward's 40-yard free kick.

On the hour, Rutherford played in Cook on the left of the Hatters box but the striker's turning strike ended just high of the Luton crossbar. Moments later, Cook had his head in his hands after he wastefully blazed over from 12 yards following a flick from Walker.

Barrow continued to dominate the second half and should have been level on 69 minutes. Walker beat an advancing Tyler to a long ball, but the stopper managed to get a hand to the striker's header. It only steered the ball into the path of Cook but his header was weak and wide and Dan Gleeson was able to clear the danger.

With the hosts chasing a point, Luton were forced to play defensively as the Bluebirds committed players forward in wave after wave of attack.

Two minutes from time, Simon Spender fired a rocket which looked destined for the Luton net had it not been for the head of team-mate Paul Jones getting in the way.

Then, in the final seconds of the game, Jones headed a sitter over from three yards after a peach of a delivery from Rutherford.

MIDLANDS ONE EAST

DUNSTABLIANS were crucified by a dominating Leighton Buzzard side after poor discipline in the first half saw them lose heavily 52-0.

It started badly for the home side as Stuart Hall was sin-binned on ten minutes for a dangerous tackle and Kelvin Frost followed suit for a similar incident. Minutes after Dunstablians suffered another loss, this time a red card after Ashley Warren punched one of the Leighton players.

They somehow managed to produce their best play of the game during these suspensions after some good kicking, but nothing to pierce the Buzzard defence.

The Dees were well beaten by the time Alex Ayres went off with a concussion, while Stuart Calder who had an elbow injury played on to the end.

MIDLANDS TWO EAST (SOUTH)

DESPITE the 48-15 scoreline this was a valiant effort from a STOCKWOOD PARK team who were at a numerical disadvantage against league leaders Market Harborough for much of the match.

The visitors opened the scoring on only two minutes, however a James Hankey break allowed Jason Carr to score out wide with only four minutes on the clock. The visitors quickly responded with a further unconverted try to lead 10-5.

Prop Keiron Logan was sent off for Stockwood Park after 12 minutes and another try for the visitors followed. Michael Humphreys was then yellow carded and during his ten minute absence the score leapt from 15-5 to 36-5 due to three converted tries.

The visitors increased their lead shortly after the break to 43-5. Park fought back with two tries of their own. Steve Pollock scored in the corner and Michael Powell crashed over to reduce the arrears to 43-15. The visitors scored the final points with a late try after Stockwood had been reduced to 13 men for the final 15 minutes when Ben Griffin left the field due to concussion.

Murray makes Field Mill switch for the third time

LUTON Town midfielder Adam Murray this week signed for Mansfield Town in a three-month loan deal with a view to a permanent switch when transfer window re-opens in January.

The 29-year-old, who came on for the Hatters on Tuesday night as a second half substitute during their 2-0 win over the Stags, had previously enjoyed two spells with the Nottinghamshire club.

He made seven appearances for the Hatters this season but competition for a central midfield berth has been tough at Kenilworth Road with Jake Howells, Keith Keane, George Pilkington and Pavel Besta all also featuring in that position this season.

After the Hatters' 1-0 win at Barrow yesterday, boss Richard Money said: "People have to understand the distance Adam's been travelling. It probably got on top of him and it's more difficult when you're not in the team, so we've shown him a great deal of empathy and we've given him an opportunity to join a club very close to where he lives. We feel we can afford to do it with what we've already got in the squad and that's why we've made the decision."

"I think we need to worry about ourselves. A strong dressing room is crucial. You certainly don't want people in there that are not happy with what happens to them at any moment in time, so we have a strong, close-knit group, it's a young group, and that's most important."

GODFREY POKU was delighted to finally make his professional debut after playing the final 24 minutes of Luton Town's 1-0 victory at Barrow.

The tough-tackling teenage midfielder signed for the club last January from St Albans City along with JJ O'Donnell on an 18-month contract and impressed in pre-season as well as in the reserves last season.

Poku said: "I'm very happy. I've always wanted to have my first team debut and I'm glad that I've had a chance."

"The pitch wasn't that great but I think we dug it out well and got the three points. We defended well."

"Adam Newton was supposed to start but then he got a little injury and the gaffer told me that I was on the bench, so I was happy and then he told me to warm up and I thought, 'alright this is my chance'."

"I was a bit nervous but I got in the game and did well, I think. I hope it showed that I can pass and not just get around the pitch and tackle."

Poku is hoping that his outing, as well as an earlier appearance from Dan Walker, who came on in the Hatters' 3-0 home victory against AFC Wimbledon last month, will encourage the other Luton youngsters to knuckle down and wait for their chance.

"We've all worked hard as a development squad," said Poku.

"We're a squad that are trying to learn more because this is a professional environment. Dan Walker's made an appearance and now I have and hopefully the rest like JJ (O'Donnell) can carry it on."

"We're always trying to do extra training and doing double sessions and I think it's helping on, not just our fitness, but our technical side."

Hatters' boss Richard Money was also delighted by the teenager's performance, saying: "He was exactly what we needed."

"He plays on his front foot, he's not afraid to get stuck in and he's not afraid to get on the ball."

"He gave the team a lift in that crucial 15 to 20 minutes. I was really pleased with his debut."
